PARIS, Tex., August 14. - Some days ago

Paris, Tex., August 14.—Some days ago Isaac Hobson, who has been in the Sherman jail for several months, charged with the murder of Cyrns M. Gilbert. in No Man's Land. November 5, 1887, saed out a writ of habeas corpus before Judge Bryant. The case was set for a hearing today.
The record, as furnished from the northern district of Texas, show that warrants had been issued for the arrest of Edward Puskee, Harvey Holmes, Henry Richardson, George Matthews and IsaaHobson by Commissioner Hogue, of Wich ita, Falls, Tex., and Hobson was arrested last March and had an examining trial.

The testimony taken then shows that

Cyrus Gilbert had a flock of sheep at Duck Pond lake, nine miles southwest of Beaver City, in No Man's Land. His neighhors objected to them being watered at the springs and began to complain. There was a vigilance committee in that country that regulated matters, and the matter was brought to its attention. On the night of daylight on November 5, Cyrus Gilbert left his father's home to search for some lame sheep. About sun up, within a sbort distance of the spring, the accused raised up from a gully and opened fire on him. He fell, shot through the body. The attacking party came to him and talked with him and he begged them for water, but he was told to go to h—for a drink. A number of people heard the shooting and went to the place. Gilbert lived eight hours, and told a number of people who shot him. The affair caused great excitement in that lawless region. A vote of citizens was and told a number of people who shot him. The affair caused great excitement in that lawless region. A vote of citizens was taken as to whether they should be tried on special court or not. It was decided that they should. The accused were taken before John M. Dale, of Beaver, who had been empowered by the citizens of that country to try such cases. A jury was impaneled. The case was heard and they were acquitted.

Judge Bryant, after examining the testimony, stated that under the act of congress of February 6, 1883, creating the court of the southern district of Kansas, and defining the boundaries of the northern district of Texas, No Man's Land was at that time in the jurisdiction of the court of Graham, Tex., and the process had been issued September 18, 1888, and as the act creating the court at Paris, approved March 1, 1889, expressly declared that it could not take cognizance of offenses, when process had begun, it was clearly not in the jurisdiction of the eastern district. He would, however, fix bail in the case and fixed bond at $2,000. Hooson was given into the custody of the marshal of the northern district. Judge Bryant's decision is an important one, as shal of the northern district. Judge Bryant's decision is an important one, as it is understood that Judge McCormick holds that the northern district never has had jurisdiction over No Man's Land.

slide of dirt and rocks from the side of the hill. The party entered the cave and walked in a good distance by the light from the mouth, which is about eight feet walked in a good distance by the light from the mouth, which is about eight feet in height by twelve in width. They, having no light to go further, returned to Normandy, got lanterns, and then went back to the cave, arriving there about 5 o'clock in the afternoon. They walked in what seemed to be a direct line all night, but found no end. There was a small creek running through the cave from northeast to southwest. The walk were very high and seemed to be smooth, except here and there stalactites hing from the roof to the floor. The distance traveled could not have been short of twenty miles. Retracing their steps they arrived at the mouth at 4 o'clock this afternoon. They say there seemed to be no end to the cave. In some places the passage is hundreds of feet wide. As the mouth of this cave lies at the foot of what is known as the table lands or barrens it is believed it extends under the whole table land. The people at this place have gone wild with excitement over the discovery. An exploring party will go into the cave sometime tonight and will stay three or four days or find the end.

Some of the roads threatened to discontinue the use of the new bill of lading unless it were adopted by all lines, as the shippers were now discriminating in favor of the Chicago & Grand Trunk, the Wabash and the four lake lines that had refused to adopt it in its present form. Chairman Blanchard of the Central Traffic association, strongly recommended that the words "Nof negotiable" periods agont the form of the door. recommended that the words "Not negotiable" printed across the face of the document be stricken out. The recommendation was manimously concurred in and, thus amended, the bill of lading was adopted by all the lines to take effect September 1. the earliest possible day.
This practically settles the fight over the uniform bill of lading. The amendment makes it a negotiable paper and bankers will no longer refuse to advance money on it. Of course the shippers will continue to urge a modification of other provisions of the contract and especially that relating to liability for damage to property during transportation but they have gained much
